

Welcome to

You are dining in one of the most unique restaurants in Texas, but you are also sitting in one of the oldest and most historical buildings in Grapevine!

Built in 1914, this building first served as a dry goods store, was used for a time as a theater and, in 1919, was transformed into the first automotive garage in Grapevine.

The name Willhoite's came from the name that Andrew Willey Willhoite and Bart H. Starr used for their garage business, the first one-stop service station in the city with auto repair, battery re-building, tire sales and service, auto parts and accessories and wrecker service.

Willhoite's Garage was also the local dealer for Attwater-Kent batteries, radios and the Vulcan wind-driven battery charger, which made it possible for many families in outlying areas to have electricity in their homes.

In 1936, Ted Willhoite joined his father in the business and at that time the first electric gasoline pump and hydraulic auto lift were installed. Ted Willhoite closed the garage and retired in 1975.

Where you are eating now may have been the wash rack, the oil storage area or beside the indoor kerosene pump, but the history of the Willhoite Garage is a part of Willhoite's Restaurant; a part that the owner has authentically restored as much as possible.

Our "Texas-Sized" buffet, delightful sandwiches and scrumptious appetizers are available now at Willhoite's rather than gasoline, oil and automotive service, but the proud tradition of "THE BEST" is still the underlying priority of Willhoite's.

We're glad you're here and hope you will come back and visit us often!

We guarantee our products and service.
